

The Harry T. Wilks Leadership Institute in association with American Studies Latin American Studies, International Studies and Women's Studies

presents visiting artist

Hector Aristizábal

Artist, Activist, Torture Survivor

Performance: "Nightwind"

Friday, September 5, 7pm

Macmillan Hall Great Room

In a harrowing solo performance, Hector Aristizábal reenacts his arrest and torture by the US-supported military in Colombia and explores possible outcomes. Violent rage? Or a channeling of the impulse and energy into the peace movement? The performance is followed by an interactive exploration of responses to violence using Theatre of the Oppressed.

Interactive Workshop

Saturday, September 6, 1-5 pm

Macmillan Hall Great Room

Participants will explore issues of multi-cultural identity and social justice in this interactive, theatre-based workshop. The workshop is limited to 25 participants. RSVP to monsonp@muohio.edu to reserve your space; admittance on the day is first come, first served.

For more information, please contact Paul Monson, monsonp@muohio.edu, or visit the Wilks Leadership Institute's Website:

www.muohio.edu/wilks